Stan,

I don't think Stephanie was available today, but we did discuss the sand internally yesterday and didn't have much issue with it.

Don't delay your operations based on us not formally approving this sand. There didn't seem to be any concern based on the two sets of results.

I am cc'ing Stephanie for concurrence, but if the barges need to be loaded this weekend, proceed as needed. If they don't need to be loaded until Monday/Tuesday, I'd say we can get you a more official approval by then...

Mike, based on the chemistry data I sent you, I think the sand that Great Lakes has stockpiled for this project is acceptable, but can you confirm that is also acceptable in the eyes of EPA so that I can approve it being put into barges for transport up river next week?

Mike, I will set it up. You have a preference? 1, 2 or 3 PM?

And yes, mobilization is still set for Tuesday and Wednesday. Have you confirmed with CDM that they do not need to send anybody out this weekend?

Finally, can I call you to review what I have sent you and make sure you have everything you need?

Stan,

Is it possible to set up a weekly progress meeting for next Wednesday afternoon? We had an internal call and feel that a general update is in order, so a call would be the best forum.

Also, I'd like to confirm that next week's schedule is still correct. (5th & 6th Mobilization, etc).

Thank you.
